

ABSTRACT

A behind the ear hearing aid includes a housing having a housing shell configured in a contoured shape. The housing shell houses an electronic circuit and a power storage unit. A multi-function plate designed as a front plate for use in an in-ear hearing aid is adapted to couple to the housing shell to form the behind the ear hearing aid. The multifunction plate includes an access opening for one of the power storage unit and the electronic circuit.